Forest Foods Farm Tour

Kenya is a land of breathtaking landscapes, rich cultures and endless opportunities. While its history bears the legacy of colonization, today's Kenya is reclaiming and celebrating its heritage - particularly through the revival of indigenous foods that have nourished its people for generations.

Through Tribe's partnership with Forest Foods, we are proud to offer you a unique experience that not only delights your taste buds but also deepens your understanding of the vital role these native foods play in our health, culture and environment. This is a special opportunity for you, as someone passionate about food, sustainability, and conscious living, to discover how we can all contribute positively to our planet. The experience is more than a culinary journey; it's a deep dive into Kenya's spirit, rich agricultural heritage and a vision for a sustainable tomorrow.

Forest Foods is a trailblazing farm-to-table brand leading the way in regenerative agriculture across East Africa. As pioneers in syntropic agroforestry, they cultivate certified organic fresh produce, nuts, and sustainable charcoal, all while tackling global challenges such as climate change, food security, and farmer livelihoods. Their production is driven by four core values: certified organic, transparency, traceability, and consistent quality.

Ubuntu Life Foundation

For you, who are inspired by stories of resilience, purpose and community-driven change - this experience offers a unique opportunity to connect with the incredible people behind Ubuntu Life Foundation.

Zane Wilemon and Jeremiah Kuria, the founders of Ubuntu Life was born from a powerful friendship rooted in faith, development and a shared vision to uplift the local community, especially those living on the margins of society. Their journey began with the creation of a center for children with special needs, providing vital medical care and life-changing therapy. Before this center existed, mothers of these children were full-time caregivers, with little time for anything else. But as their children received the care they needed, these mothers approached Zane and Jeremiah with a new question:

"Now that our kids are being cared for for five days a week, can you help us do something productive with our time?"

What began twenty years ago with nine women learning to sew on manual machines has blossomed into a thriving social enterprise. Today, Ubuntu Life employs over 400 women full-time, empowering them to transform not only their own lives but their entire community. The organization has since evolved into a celebrated lifestyle brand, collaborating with major retail brands and fashion houses around the world.

During this visit, you'll have the chance to meet the co-founders and the remarkable Mums behind Ubuntu's success. Hear their stories, witness their craftsmanship and experience firsthand how Ubuntu Life is redefining what it means to be a community-focused brand - where every product has a purpose and every stitch tells a story.

Siafu

For you, who appreciate craftsmanship, sustainability and the beauty of traditional arts - this experience offers a unique glimpse into the revival of Kenya's rich textile heritage.

Gladys Macharia began her journey by creating Loyangalani, a bespoke jewelry line made entirely in Kenya using locally sourced materials. Along the way, she encountered Kenya's struggling textile industry and was inspired to revive an art form that was on the verge of being lost. Determined to showcase the beauty and potential of Kenyan-made fabrics, Gladys set out to create a space where traditional weaving techniques could thrive.

Today, Siafu Home is a vibrant workshop in Nairobi and home to a dedicated group of weavers who create stunning fabrics from organic cotton using traditional hand looms. Though the team is small, their passion and craftsmanship shine through in every piece they create.

During this experience, you'll step into the heart of Siafu's factory, meet the talented weavers and witness firsthand the intricate process of handloom weaving. You'll learn how Siafu is training a new generation of artisans, preserving the knowledge and skills of experienced weavers. Also how the brand is bringing Kenyan textiles to global markets with their unique style and commitment to the highest quality.

This is more than just a visit - it's an opportunity to connect with the stories behind the fabric, explore the intersection of tradition and innovation and take home a piece of Kenya's rich artistic heritage.

Sheldrick Wildlife Trust (Private Viewing)

For you, who are passionate about wildlife and conservation, this is a truly unforgettable experience. Located in the heart of Nairobi National Park, the Sheldrick Wildlife Trust (SWT) Nursery is where the incredible journey of orphaned elephants begins—a journey that, many years later, leads them back to their rightful home in the wild.

From specially designed viewing areas, you'll witness the heartwarming sight of these young elephants emerging from the forest in playful groups. Watch as they splash in the mud, challenge each other to friendly wrestling matches or enjoy a dust bath under the warm Kenyan sun. Each visit is unique, as the Nursery herd's playful antics and personalities shine in different ways every day.

A senior Keeper will guide your experience, introducing you to each elephant and sharing their personal stories, triumphs and quirks. You'll also learn about the vital conservation work that SWT is doing across Kenya to protect and rehabilitate wildlife.

Koroga Experience

Koroga has deep roots in Kenyan culture. The word Koroga is derived from the Swahili word “kuharoga” which means to stir. It is a cooking style that was started hundreds of years ago by Indian migrants.

The Indian community has resided in Kenya for hundreds of years and both cultural influences have been deeply intertwined to create this unique culinary experience.

Imagine a diner experience where you would go to a restaurant and self cook in the commercial space (in a private banda), the ingredients are already organised, the main dishes are cooked using the Kenyan traditional charcoal burning Jiko (stove) and a Mwiko (wooden spoon).
